What is it here that drew us together; that bade us pack our varying talents, our joys, our sorrows, our backgrounds, our ambitions; that brought them here and freely intermingled all, till all was blent; that made our mutual love to be enhanced the more for distant environs brought among our own; that pays farewell with boundless treasures—warmest friends, noblest goals, godliest service; that draws us back again to this one spot, though no one should be here?

Grant Hellman

A year, and a year,
 and a year,
 and another;
Are they not lengthy yet brief exacting yet leisurely, changing
 yet changeless?
Do they not depress
 yet animate confuse
 yet construct our thinking?
Yet from them we emerge,
 the finished product
 only begun,
 for service trained yet so inadequate, mature examples
 yet meek disciples.
As such we have determined to depict herein to you,
 the reader,
 our honorable alma mater.

The registration line . . . we planned for the seemingly long nine months ahead.

*The drowsy campus awoke . . . eager students arrived
 . . . a new year began*

The vacant dormitory rooms soon were occupied . . . the halls resounded with merry laughter.

Carefully planning . . . assigning topics . . . proofreading and arranging . . . hurrying to meet a deadline once a month . . . the result: eight issues of the Mill Stream.

The Mill Stream outing . . . a warm sunny afternoon of relaxation

The campus, on the afternoon of September 26, stirred with activity.
The Annual Mill Stream Outing preceded the program given by the Mill Stream Staff.

Once again governed by the bell, we attempted to make it to class before that tardy bell rang.

Students took their places on class routine . . . then study—

It took some effort to get down to studying after the vacation . . . after the Student Dedication Service, we wanted to make the new year the very best.

Autumn memories: Extended noon periods . . . games together . . . and the flu epidemic

The active autumn schedule furnished the store with plenty of business. It served the students, supplying their needs . . . needs ranged from a tablet of paper to something to eat.

Bird lovers tramped through autumn-decked woods

"Listen! Did you hear that call? It sounds like a cardinal, doesn't it?"

"Oh, there is a woodpecker! Is it a downy or is it a hairy?"

"How did you like those records of bird calls he played for us?"

"It was really fun to watch those birds at the feeder."

These are some of the remarks we heard from the Bird Study students.

Six-thirty p.m., Thursday evening . . . meaningful songs . . . a talk stimulating our thinking . . . short earnest prayers . . . This was our conjoint prayer circle.

Fall revival meetings and prayer circles promoted spiritual growth

New commitments, deepened convictions, and true happiness were the results of our fall revivals conducted by David Thomas.

Ladies' chorus: Singing . . . sharing . . . and worshipping together

“ ‘The night is dark, I cannot see my way’ . . . ‘Our Maker, Defender, Redeemer and Friend!’ . . . ‘My Jesus, I love thee, I know thou art mine’ . . . ‘Were you there when they crucified my Lord?’ . . . ‘Thou that sittest at the right hand of God the Father: have mercy upon us.’ . . . ‘Truly I’d love Thee, truly I’d serve Thee’ ”

Mens' chorus: Beautiful melodies . . . much practice . . . and learning new songs

“ ‘Remember me, O Mighty One’ . . . ‘Rock of ages’ . . . ‘Saviour, again to Thy dear name we raise’ . . . ‘Praise to the Lord’ . . . ‘Nearer, my God, to Thee’ . . . ‘Blessed is he that readeth’ . . . ‘The riches of love’ . . . ‘Hear the petitions we offer’ ”

A lively game of ping-pong . . . with a refreshed mind and spirit, back to classes and homework.

Recreation . . . sleep . . . work . . . occupied after school

Every day had its duties . . . our daily work assignments . . . a change from the usual employment of the mind.

The end of a weary day . . . repose within a bed of ease . . . a noisy alarm clock . . .
a new day ahead.

Study hall's quiet, busy atmosphere . . . though studying from day to day, there still remained much to learn.

Piles of books to study . . . days raced by . . . term tests faced us

Test time . . . day students lived for dismissal bell and the sight of the parking lot.

4:00 a.m. . . . three buses heading toward New York City . . . the United Nations with its beautiful architecture and interesting people . . . a windy boat tour around Manhattan Island . . . 10:00 a.m. . . . 90 seniors, weary, but more enlightened . . . and another class trip was over.

The underclassmen took over while the seniors toured New York City

The front campus became alive . . . trucks screeched . . . busy workmen scampered about . . . hammers beat in unsteady rhythm . . . the new auditorium grew steadily.

Baseballs spanked against gloves . . . a tired volley ball, punched for the 913th time . . . ping-pong balls slapped across the table . . . gay tugs-of-war at the taffy pull . . . lungs exercising freely . . . this is the way we released our pent-up energy.

*Tiresome routine . . . an exciting tennis game . . .
the tension relieved*

Recreation Committee

Music Appreciation class . . . music lovers gathered with shining eyes and singing hearts.

As the days curled up crisp and frosty . . . music echoed through the campus

Art? . . . a deft dip of the brush . . . wide, graceful strokes . . . shading, blending . . . minute details . . . the last touch.

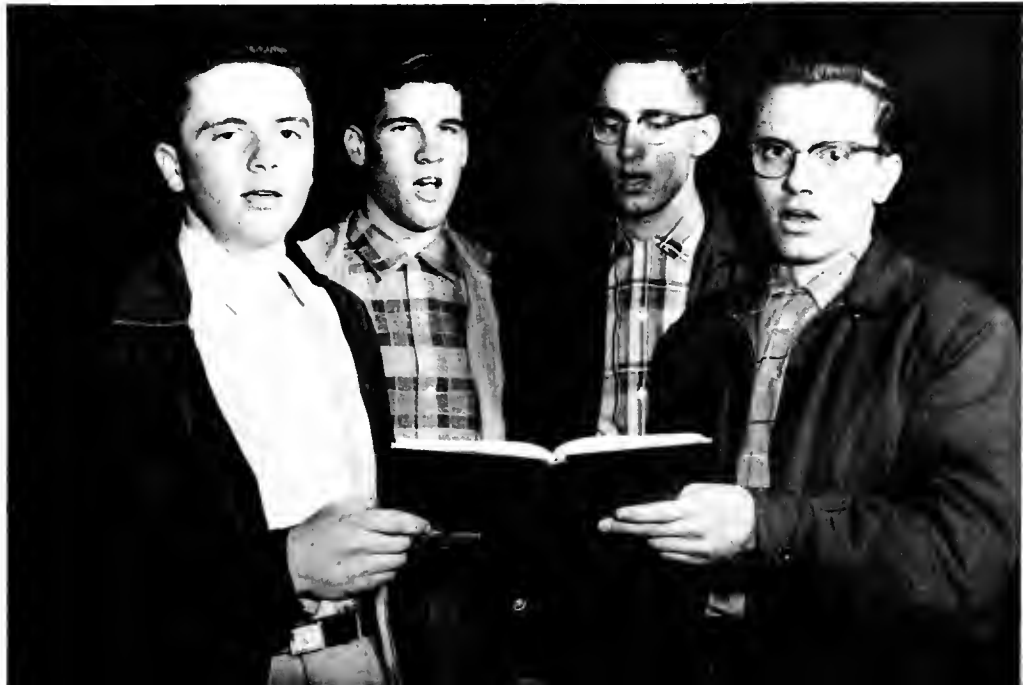

Senior Girls' Quartet

We thawed our fingers . . . toes . . . and hearts while listening to good music

Senior Boys' Quartet

Eager hands and minds proved the intoxicating powers of classes

Home Economics class . . . an awkward display of thimbles . . . bent pins . . . broken needles . . . zig-zag stitching . . . yielded a glamorous outfit . . . the palpitating heart of a young seamstress.

"Doce me, Jehova, viam tuam . . ." (Latin)

"Enséñame, oh Jehová, tu camino . . ." (Spanish)

"Weise mir, Herr, deinen Weg . . ." (German)

"Teach me thy way, O Lord . . ." (English)

Languages . . . especially . . . were fascinating subjects

A word at a time, each word its rules, each rule its exceptions, and so we learn and then share the secret joys of progress. And when the training is completed, then shall we put to service the English, the Spanish, the German, the Latin, which roused in us so much anxiety. But therewith can we better serve our King, who breathed on men diversities of tongue.

Public Speaking class . . . overcame the problem of "stage fright"
 . . . gave speeches . . . memorized . . . had debates . . . conducted
 "business meetings" . . . and got enjoyment out of it.

*Christmas vacation became a thing of the past . . .
 our minds were again turned to lessons*

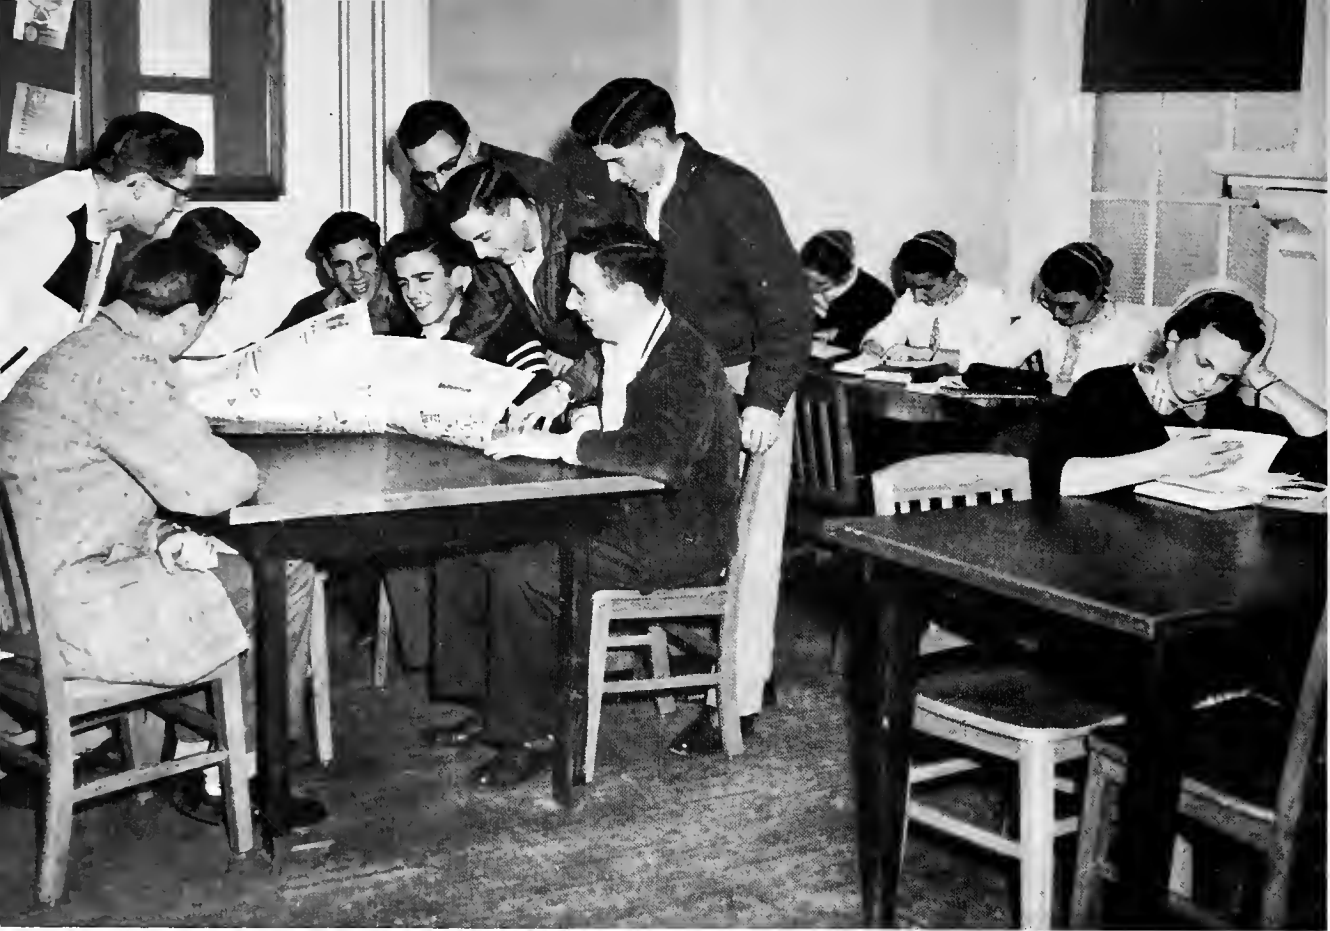

Despite his illness, after six weeks in Arizona faculty member Jesse Byler was back with his biology class . . . rested . . . his classes welcomed him back, though he frequently announced: "Tomorrow we are having a review, and the following day, the inevitable!"

Student forum: Ideas for improvements became realities

The Student Forum is an active body, concerned with the problems of L.M.S. life. This year, they sponsored special projects . . . planned noon prayer circles . . . and encouraged the students to do their part in making our campus a better place.

After-supper discussions often found their root in current events . . .

Gay words and laughter flowed freely from these informal gatherings . . .

We learned the joy of fellowship with friends

Our periods of private devotion were steppingstones in spiritual growth . . .
It was here that we unloaded our problems, and found new strength to continue . . .

—and the necessity of fellowship with God

The seniors held lively and significant business meetings

Suggesting . . .

Considering . . .

Discussing . . .

Voting . . .

A cycle repeated, session after session throughout the year. It kept the Seniors very much occupied taking care of the many items of business.

The winter provided snow and ice for variations

The Mill Stream frozen, attracting skaters.
Everything was tucked under a fleecy blanket of snow.

When chains were a vital necessity . . .
Putting them on was not so easy.

The snow provided extra fun at school . . .
Heading for home was not so pleasant.

Ring! . . . 8:35 a.m. . . . silence crept over the chapel . . . voices and hearts raised in praise . . . an invigorating message . . . this was our chapel service.

Daily chapel services prepared us for a day's activities

The six messages of the Christian Life Conference was given by Don Augsburger.

Christ speaks,
and from perpetual tedium we draw apart;
we lowly worship;
we warmly pray;
we lift our hearts unitedly in praise.
And thus,
each day refreshed,
with lightened task,
with quickened step,
with brightened hope,
each soul is drawn nearer to God.

Spring with its outstanding beauties attracted nature lovers

The excited clamoring of nature lovers . . . long hikes through the woods
. . . climbing over rocks and through brambles to see nature's specialities
. . . Nature Study Class.

Wood, fingers and clothes radiant with shellac . . . the incessant tap, tap of hammers . . . Crafts Class.

Arrival of spring invigorated . . . seemingly affecting appetites

The day's milestone reached . . . a last slick of the hair . . . the line graduates a few more steps . . . eyes glint with new zeal . . . stomachs cease their plaintive wailing . . . "Lunch was good today."

With united effort . . . the senior chorus completed a year of singing together

Pleasing harmony in hymns . . . program at Philhaven . . . difficult but beautiful music . . . keen satisfaction overcoming difficult songs . . . watching the director's leading . . . a final harmonious blending.

Ninety-seven happy freshmen and sophomores . . . gathering once a week . . . songbooks held high . . . all eyes on the leader . . . a joyous melody.

Strains from junior chorus echo throughout the campus

*Warm, balmy days . . . a velvety green campus . . .
spring fever*

Friends . . . A cheery "Hello" . . . An exchange of opinions and ideas . . . Help in solving problems, the important or not so important . . . A good time sprinkled with laughter . . . Strengthened convictions . . . Assistance climbing our spiritual ladder.

Preparing for tests . . . heeding to nature's beckoning . . . struggling through warm, drowsy afternoons . . . inspiring chats with friends . . . cleaning out lockers and rooms . . . attending commencement exercises . . . a busy climax to the year.

*Days filled with activity . . . final exams . . .
commencement*

Another year has gradually closed its pages. Its merry moments, its disappointments and its difficult lessons . . . all have passed. Yet, stowed away in albums, scribbled in diaries, etched in the minds of the students . . . this year will not be forgotten.

RELIGIOUS WELFARE COMMITTEE

Noah W. Risser
 LeRoy S. Stoltzfus
 David N. Thomas

Behind the scenes, yet vitally significant, is the Board of Trustees of the Lancaster Mennonite Conference Schools, Inc. Of its sixteen members, twelve are elected by members of Lancaster Conference for three-year terms, and four are appointed by the Bishop Board of the Conference for one-year terms from districts not represented by the elected members.

Three bishop brethren constitute the Religious Welfare Committee which meets with the Board of Trustees. The aim of these directors is to provide a substantial Christian education for all who desire it and to prepare young people for service to Christ and the church.

Old Testament Book Study, Bible Survey

To the Seniors:

My hearty congratulations to each of you upon your successful completion of high school work.

The associations you had here with fellow Christians of the nonconformed and nonresistant faith, together with the religious instruction of the school were designed to develop a more intimate fellowship with Christ Jesus your Lord. I urge you in the words of Paul in Colossians 2:6: "As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in Him."

May you find peace in His fellowship, joy in His service and the full assurance of His leading as you plan and pursue life's pathways with Him.

Harvey W. Bauman, Acting Dean Route 1, Lititz, Pa.

Problems of Democracy, Chemistry, Business Arithmetic, Boys' Health, Sunday School Teaching.

To the Class of '58:

Your compulsory school days are over. But most of life remains before you. It holds before you many opportunities. Opportunities for freedom or bondage, happiness or misery, possessions or poverty, service or selfishness. May the example of the Lord Jesus be your pattern as you go forward. As you appropriate His sufficiency you will be ever faithful.

Clyde B. Stoner, Secretary-Treasurer R. 4, Lancaster, Pa.

Typing I, II; Bookkeeping I, II; Personal Use Bookkeeping

To the Graduating Class:

With the strength and vigor of youth, you are facing the future. You are called to serve God in a needy world. May your life be dedicated to the great tasks and opportunities which are before you as you give your Christian witness to the world.

Noah G. Good, our former dean for fifteen years, is on one year's leave of absence. Serving as pastor to the PAX boys in Germany and in Europe, he is very effectively filling a significant place in their lives and in the work there. His duties include advising and counseling, organizing and planning, and some teaching, that was done at two Bible schools.

To the Seniors in the 1958 Graduating Class:

It seems very strange to be writing to a graduating class from Europe. It also seems strange to feel that I do not know you so well because of not having been with you during your senior year. But, I am glad to take advantage of this opportunity to write a little message to you for use in your senior annual and to wish you a very pleasant and profitable commencement season.

If we could sit down for a few minutes for a little chat over the desk I should want to ask a few questions and make a few little suggestions that might be useful to a graduate who is making plans for life.

Have you thought of the reason for going to school twelve years to the point of high school graduation? Have you tried to discover the really worth-while things in life so that you can guide your work, study, play, the formation of friendships toward the things of lasting value? Have you thought through the meaning of resignation, the ability to allow oneself to be used for the sake of others or for God at the expense of giving up one's own plans or wishes. Have you thought that a selfish life is the smallest possible life, while the truly selfless life has unlimited possibility for greatness so long as greatness is not an aim in itself.

You have the satisfaction of having completed a goal. You have finished twelve years of work in school. You did it for varied reasons, all of the reasons applying to each of you to some degree. At times you were in school because it was the accepted thing to do. Sometimes you wanted to be in school to improve your chances of success in life. At times you were in the classroom because you had to, or you thought you had to. Sometimes you went to school to please some person whom you did not want to displease. Then, too, there were times when you had lofty ideals of service and you resolved to do your best in school and at home to more quickly and more fully reach those noble aims. Sometimes you may have thought that being in school is easier than working at home or in the shop. If you thought of all of these, and a few others, you are pretty normal.

Certainly, no person should find fault with you for having done well what is popularly approved and considered good. I want to take your hand and congratulate you; but once again I want to refer to the selfish life and the selfless life mentioned above. If Paul were saying it he might say, "And yet shew I unto you a more excellent way" (I Cor. 12:31). Then he proclaims the greatness of charity, or selfless love at work.

Noah Good

Teacher to Student

There lies a land more vast than mind can dream
Beyond the limits of this narrow lane.
There rugged hills of truth invite the strong,
And knowledge spreads her ever-widening plain.

Bound in by walls of lethargy and pride,
None can conceive that realm's immensity;
Yet eager spirits, searching humbly, find
The gate of learning that will set them free.

I ask you to believe me when I try
To paint for you the splendor of that land,
To trust me as I guide you to the gate
And place the magic key within your hand.

This task I gladly do. Then ask of me
No more, for only you can turn the key.

President's Message

Our feelings are mingled with joy and regret as we leave. We will miss the co-operation together in activities, the rich Christian fellowship in chapel, prayer circles, and our associations with others. However, an indelible imprint was implanted on our lives which should blossom out into future service for our King.

Under the excellent supervision of our class adviser, we successfully completed our Senior year. We learned much of the art of living together and of sharing our ideas and interests with others by our participation in class business and other activities.

If we are fully dedicated to God, he will help us make our decisions, and maintain our Christian ideals. Let's give God our talents and abilities, and continue—FORWARD, EVER FAITHFUL.

Forward Ever Faithful

"Forward, Forward ever Faithful!"
To our ranks the call rings clear
From the voice of our Captain,
Challenge facing all who hear.
* * *

"Have you all thus far been faithful?
Have you followed steadfastly?
Given up delight for duty?
Yielded self and will to Me?
I have led you in your childhood
When your mother's arms were near,
When your father gave protection—
Refuge in each pre-school year.
Then appeared on the horizon
Sweep of plains more widely spread,
Newer friends and greater knowledge;
Through it all I safely led.
Onward through the years you followed
In the pathway I had planned;
Not of will, nor yet of conscience,
Till the day sin left its brand.
Then you faltered, stumbled, fearing;
From the path your footsteps strayed,
Struggling through the bogs and brambles,
Stumbling in the snares, dismayed.
From the path I gently called you;
Then with bleeding heart and sore
You turned back, found grace sufficient
And traversed the path once more.
Now your childhood eyes were opened,
And you followed as a youth
Strong and buoyant, keenly eager
For the battleground of Truth.
Ever forward then I led you
And communed with you in prayer,
When the path was rough and rocky
Or when flower-strewn and fair."
* * *

The call has come! The clarion ringing Brings us to our rank and row.
All the world now lies before us,
Unknown paths and ways we know.
Knowledge, youth, and strength possessing,
God's own Word as Guide have we.
And our Captain's voice is calling,
"Forward ever Faithful, be."

1. Lord, help us to be ev-er faithful to Thee.
 2. When tempted to stray, Lord help us be true.
 3. We know that you gave your dear son so that we,

True servants of thine we all want to be
 We want to de-vote our talents to you poor sin-ful souls, might be set free

1. Faith-ful thro shad-ows. Faith-ful thro each trying day.
 Faithful tho shadows may darken the way. Faithful thro each trying day.
 Help us be strong to defeat ev'ry foe. Show us the right way to go.
 The debt we owe we can never repay. Close by your side we will stay.

For we know that thou wilt guide us; you've promised Though we cannot see be-fore us, we'll worry Lord, we want to leave thee never, but throughout ev-er to walk be-side us ev'ry day.

 not, but trust your will for us. It is best.
 life to go for-ward ev-er faith-ful.

We walked into misty September's outstretched arms
Eagerly clutching the garb of Seniors Competence with stubby lead brow-creasing equations grammatical trees Saturated by vibrating hallways a teacher's compliment entangled friendships Led us to discover hidden wellsprings of deeper life.

Spring breathes on us.
September is a blurred speck
in the woods of the past.
Now it is time to leave,
yet not leave—
We carry memories
in the recess of our hearts.
Time will oil the constriction of our throats,
As we venture
